
ITAR ACKNOWLEDGEMENT FORM – CANADIAN SUPPLIERS

Many of Amphenol Borisch Technologies products and related technical data are military or defense items, and are controlled by the International Traffic in Arms Regulations (ITAR).

The U.S. Department of State, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls (DDTC), controls the export and re-export of any items and related technical data specifically designed, modified or configured for military application through the ITAR, reference 22 CFR §120-130.

The complete International Traffic in Arms Regulations (ITAR) can be found on the U.S. State Department, Directorate of Defense Trade Controls, website at <http://www.pmdtc.org>. As a valued supplier to Amphenol Borisch Technologies, you are required to comply with the following subcontractor export compliance procedures:

- All requirements of the U.S. Department of State, Office of Defense Trade Controls, via 22 CFR §120-130, for export-controlled articles and data.
- Unless otherwise noted, all defense articles and technical data (i.e., information such as specifications, drawings, sample parts or defense services that are required for the design, development, production, manufacture, assembly, operation, repair, testing, maintenance, or modification of defense articles) provided by Amphenol Borisch Technologies is considered to be export controlled and may not be provided directly or indirectly to any Non-Canadian or Non-US person in your employment without specific prior export authorization from the Department of State, Office of Defense Trade Controls Licensing (ODTCL).
- You may not provide any defense articles or technical data from Amphenol Borisch Technologies to foreign suppliers (any corporation, business association, partnership, society, trust, entity, organization or governmental entity that is not incorporated to do business in the United States) regardless of the nature of the relationship to the U.S. supplier, for any reason, without prior specific export authorization secured from the Department of State, Office of Defense Trade Controls Licensing (ODTCL).

- You agree not to transfer any export controlled defense articles or technical data provided by Borisch Manufacturing Corporation to any U.S. subcontractor or vendor without first notifying the subcontractor or vendor of the export compliance requirements as stated above.
- You are required to disclose to Amphenol Borisch Technologies in accordance with 22 CFR §130, if you or any of your vendors have paid, offered, or agreed to pay, any political contribution, fees or commissions in respect to any defense articles or technical data which you or any of your vendors supply to Amphenol Borisch Technologies
